Turkish Studies Day

Celebrate the history, culture, and future of Turkey with 2 events on Thursday, February 7th

Bridges and Fissures: The Politics of Belonging in Turkey
A discussion on how different cultural and ethnic identities negotiate a space for themselves within the limits of Turkish nationalism

10am-12pm in Rosa Parks rooms B & C, Downstairs in Cesar Chavez Center

Featuring:
Kabir Tambar, Assistant Professor, Department of Anthropology, Stanford University
"Pluralism and Political Voice in Turkey"

Kelda Jamison, PhD candidate, Department of Anthropology, University of Chicago
"Speaking Kurdish in Public: Code and Context in Political Speech in Turkey"

Carel Bertram, Associate Professor, Department of Humanities, SFSU
"Images of Place: The Legacy of the Ottoman Past in Modern Turkey"

Muna Guvenc, PhD candidate, Department of Architecture, UC Berkeley
"Appropriation of Space and Kurdish Nationalism in the Absence of a Kurdish Nation-State in Diyarbakir, Turkey"

Turkey Today and Tomorrow: Current Events and Future Implications
Assessing the domestic and international role of Turkey in current Middle Eastern affairs with a discussion on Turkey’s role as the potential new regional superpower

4-4:30pm refreshments, 4:30-6:30pm panel
HSS 362 – IR Briefing Theatre

Featuring:
Mahmood Monshipouri, International Relations, SFSU
Andrei Tsygankov, International Relations, SFSU
Nicole Watts, Political Science, SFSU
Sinan Ciddi, Executive Director, Institute of Turkish Studies, Washington DC
Chairied by Burcu Ellis, International Relations, SFSU

Turkish food provided at both events!
For more information, email IRSA@mail.sfsu.edu
Sponsored by IRSA, ASI, & Middle East and Islamic Studies